Attended by more conference registrants than any other event, the OOPSLA Exhibits are where OO software developers, publishers, technology researchers, framework architects, training consultants and recruiters go for a “meeting of the minds” and an introduction to the latest object-oriented offerings.

This is the one place you can reach potential customers with news and demonstrations of your latest products, publications or services.

- The popular Publishers’ Pavilion, where attendees can browse for the latest periodicals and books.
- OOPSLA Conference Posters are integrated with exhibit booths.
